Well-oiled education machine

BETHEL--Telstar Home Economics students are testing the uses of WD-40 as part of a product research program sponsored by the product's manufacturer. The middle and high schools are among 225 U.S. schools participating in the study. Teachers receive free materials and WD-40 products for class demonstrations and student research. The school will also be eligible for a random drawing with a prize of $5,000 of educational equipment to be shared among 25 schools.

Services explained at town meetings

NORWAY--A local social services group will provide a "benefit package" brochure at area town meetings describing how its member agencies spend funds appropriated for them by municipalities. Known as Non-Profit Partners, the group is comprised of the Child Health Center, Tri-County Mental Health, Community Concepts, the YMCA, Safer Families, REACH, the OH Community Partnership, and Big Brothers/Big Sisters. The Partners coordinate fundraising efforts and share resources to save costs.

Call of the wild

FREIBURG--A member of the Maine Wolf Coalition expects the eastern timber wolf to make a natural recovery in Maine. John Glowa of South China said that wolves now live 75 miles from the Maine border in Quebec and are known to travel 500 miles or more. He noted that a wolf was shot in Maine by a hunter last year. Glowa said the return of the wolf could mean income for the state, as people come to see or hear the animal. He said the International Wolf Center in Minnesota had 100,000 visitors its first year. The coalition supports wolf recovery, but not reintroducing wolves to Maine. "We believe wolves can coexist with hunting and trapping, timber harvesting and agriculture in Maine, as they do elsewhere," Glowa said.

Town funds missing in Andover

ANDOVER--Selectman Kathy Williamson said last week that funds are missing from the town office. She said the amount was less than $1,000. "The police came and talked to everyone in the town office, and found nothing to investigate," she said. "On the advice of the auditor (Gary Dyke) and the police, we called the insurance company, but we are not covered for lost funds. The auditor will make an adjustment."

Selectmen pinch pennies

WOODSTOCK--Selectmen are working to hold this year's budget to last year's figure of $1,142,713.46, of which $772,855.81 was raised from taxes. Selectman Percy Monk said last week he thought holding the line was necessary because the town would be getting less state and federal money. Town manager Vern Maxfield had presented to selectmen several proposals with totals raised from taxation topping $800,000. After examining the figures they came up with possible cuts to hold the municipal tax increase to $18,000, but they planned to look for further cuts as well.

Mailman's gift to fund scholarships

WEST PARIS--James Albert Jackson, a lifelong West Paris resident, has left $1.3 million to SAD 17. The bequest will be put in a trust fund for students from West Paris who pursue higher education. Jackson, who died two years ago at age 88, was a rural letter carrier for many years for the U.S. Postal Service. SAD 17 officials expect the trust fund to earn about $50,000 per year. Between 12 and 15 West Paris students graduate from Oxford Hills High School each year.

Slow down, more troopers on the way

GRAY--Seven new state troopers will be patrolling the roads in Oxford, Cumberland and parts of Androscoggin and Franklin counties. They recently completed 22 weeks of training at the Maine Criminal Justice Academy in Waterville. Maine Public Safety Department spokesman Stephen McCausland said that this is the first addition of troopers in five years. They will be replacing troopers who have retired. The troopers have already begun their patrols. "It's a busy area of Maine out there," said McCausland.

Chipping in to save money

RUMFORD--Boise Cascade Paper Mill is saving money on fuel by burning chipped tires in its boilers. Since Boise started the process last June, it has increased its use of the tires from 72 tons a week to 100 tons a day. The partial shift from coal to tires is saving the company about 10% in fuel costs. Burning the tires is also better for the environment -- less smoke and sulfur dioxide are emitted, according to company officials, who said the practice will help alleviate tire dump problems around the state.

Safety seat saves child

GREENE--Androscoggin County Sheriff's deputies are crediting a car seat with saving a little girl's life in an accident Saturday in Greene. Carla Madore, 48, of Augusta was killed when her car collided with James Donahue, 20, of Auburn. There were no passengers in Madore's vehicle. Donahue and a passenger in his truck were both taken to Central Maine Medical Center for treatment. Three-year-old Brianna Dehetre, who was also riding in Donahue's vehicle was treated for minor injuries and released. "If it wouldn't have been for that little girl being placed in a child safety seat, it could have been a lot worse," said deputy Guy Desjardins. "They had her buckled up really well. The device did its job."

Sun-Journal/Sunday suing sheriff

AUBURN--The Lewiston Sun-Journal/Sunday is suing Oxford County Sheriff Lloyd C. Herrick, claiming his department withheld public information from reporters. The suit alleges the sheriff's department illegally kept police blotter information from a free-lance reporter. The department provides a computer printout with some information about phone-in complaints, but the newspaper wants access to all the information before it's entered into the computer. The paper contends original data entries are public information. The paper isn't seeking any damages, only access to the information. Sheriff's office officials say reporters are free to ask about individual complaints, but that the department must protect witnesses and other involved in ongoing investigations. No date has been set for a hearing in Androscoggin County Superior Court.

Restaurant curfew repeal proposed

AUGUSTA--Rep. G. Paul Waterhouse, R-Bridgton, is sponsoring legislation to repeal a law enacted last year that forbids restaurants with lounges from serving dinner to anyone under 21 after 9 p.m. unless accompanied by an adult. The law was enacted by the 16th Legislature and "lost in the shuffle," according to Waterhouse, who said restaurant owners in his district were outraged by the law. "What this law does is require that teenagers and most college-age kids take their parents along for dinner dates," Waterhouse said. "In the summertime, when it stays light longer and schools are out, 9 o'clock comes fairly early. Frequently, an 8 o'clock seating won't finish until after 9 p.m., which would mean an abrupt end to an otherwise nice meal." Waterhouse said the original law was intended to discourage young people from hanging out in area, such as the Old Port in Portland.

isn't that much money in the savings accounts. There's not enough there to save much on interest," Curtis said.

Swan added that selectmen had saved the town several hundred dollars the past two years by changing insurance plans.

Resident Sam Chittick said selectmen could ask for help from retired people in the community.

"I spent years in the insurance business. I don't see why we have to spend more money. Make a list of what town managers do, and we'll do it," he said.

Swan and Curtis questioned whether Greenwood needs a more detailed training plan for employees. The committee had said current disease control and OSHA training are not adequate.

Committee chairman Albert Curtis said he had been told by a Maine Municipal Association lawyer that if a dump attendant reached into a dumpster, got jabbed with a needle, and contracted AIDS, the town could be sued for up to $1 million, with town insurance covering only $300,000 of it.

The committee also said a town manager could better see a project through to conclusion, citing the Gordon tire facility issue as an example.

Carl Curtis disagreed.

"DEP (the Department of Environmental Protection) overrode the town on a hearing on that. They won't listen to a town manager any quicker. When your state legislators can't do anything, you know a town manager can't," he said.

Dunham also questioned if townspersons' problems would be solved more quickly with a town manager.

"Most complaints people have are about valuation, and the town manager has no authority over that. They would have to go to the selectmen anyway," he said.

Dunham and Chittick pressed the committee members for more details on why the town needed a manager.

"The selectmen do a good job. I don't want to get into personalities and start naming names. That's not what this is about," Albert Curtis said.

Town Clerk Phyllis Coolidge said the committee was painting too rosy a picture of the town manager form of government.

"You make it sound like a Camelot. I don't think a town manager is a Camelot," she said.

From the Bethel Police log:

Tire slasher strikes at Suds

On Feb. 10 at 10:10 a.m., an Andover woman reported two tires on her car had been slashed with a knife while it was parked at Suds' Pub the night before. She had left it overnight, thinking it had only a flat tire. Police discovered while investigating that two tires on an adjacent car had also been slashed.

Thursday, Feb. 9

At 9:25 a.m., a Bethel Park Apartments woman reported her son was harassing and mentally abusing her. She said she has no control over him and wanted help. Police sent a report to the juvenile intake officer.

At 1 p.m., a Bethel man called to report a door kicked in at the residence on the corner of Route 2 and Martin's Lane. When police arrived there were no new tracks in the snow, but the door to the shed had been kicked open. The would-be burglars were not able to gain entry, however. (Note: the next day the same house suffered substantial damage in a fire. See photo p.2.)

At 5:45 p.m., a Bethel man reported someone had jimmyed a locked door on his Sunday Valley Acres house and stolen a CD player, color TV, and microwave. Neighbors said they observed two males in their early 20's with dark hair in a small red pickup truck on the road. Police planned further investigation.

Wednesday, Feb. 8

At 8:56 p.m., a Bethel woman reported a load of trash in the middle of the road on Route 5 toward Albany. Police removed three bags of trash and six five-gallon pails of sand spilled on the center line. M.D.O.T. was notified.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity.

chair Wanda Lavallee.

"It would be less time spent on the bus for the children (to go to Errol) and it's cheaper," said Lavallee, who declined to talk about the exact figures until Town Meeting.

The town's three-year contract with SAD44 expires at the end of the current school year. The district also contracted to transport Upton students for the 1994-95 school year.

"They have to decide what's best for their kids," said SAD44 superintendent Ronald Jenkins. "We'd be happy to have them. But their kindergarten, first, second- and third-grade students are riding 26 miles to school. (Upton) wants to look into alternatives. You can't fault them for that."

Sending students to Errol will save Upton transportation costs, but not tuition expenses, said Jenkins, who is also Upton's state agent.

It's about 26 miles from Upton to Bethel, Jenkins said, and about 10 miles from Upton to Errol.

The state currently allows SAD44 to collect $4,638 for high school students, $3,666 for elementary students and $1,833 for kindergarteners.

New Hampshire tuition rates are $6,385 for high school students and $4,520 for elementary students, Jenkins said.

"We're not going to be devastated (if Upton decides to send its students to New Hampshire), Jenkins said. "But they are worth some tuition money to us."

The committee will make its recommendation at the March 23 Town Meeting. It will require a town vote to continue with SAD44 or contract with Errol, N.H.

Upton's two other School Board members are Lauri Brown and Tammy Grondin.

Signs

study the ordinances of a number of other towns, including Freeport, Bridgton, Turner and Stowe, Vt.

Among the possible topics the committee is expected to consider are internally lighted signs, sign height, number of signs per business, and whether the town should take over responsibility for MDOT signs.

Planning Board chairman Frank Vogt said last week that he has fielded a number of phone calls and comments regarding the proliferation of signs in town.

If residents want to changes to the current ordinance, he said, it is essential that they let the members of the sign committee and the selectmen know of their feelings.

"We want to protect the business community, but also the beauty of the town," he said.

School sports

Boys' basketball

Telstar 74, Dirigo 70

Todd Wing scored 27 points and Cory Koch and Caesar Morgan each scored 11 as Telstar's varsity beat Dirigo 74-70 Feb. 10.

Mountain Valley 77, Telstar 74

Telstar's varsity squad lost 77-74 Feb. 7 to Mountain Valley. Todd Wing scored 33 points and tied a Telstar record with six three-point shots.

JV: Pine Tree 44, Gould 38

Gould's JV boys' squad lost 44-38 to Pine Tree on Feb. 6. Nate Garlick was high-scorer with 19 points, Darren Wiggle sank nine points.

Telstar Middle School boys win tournament

The Telstar Middle School boys varsity team won the 1995 Andy Caron Division B Tournament. On Friday Telstar beat Gorham 45-26, and on Saturday the boys defeated Berlin 44-24 for the tournament crown. "The entire team played solid games and realized what it means to work as a team," coach Jeffrey Kalman said.

Middle School JV: Oxford Hills 77, TMS 14

Oxford Hills used a half-court trap to force a slew of turnovers in Telstar Middle Schools JV boys' game last week. The Rebels lost 77-14. The JV middle school team finished the season with a 2-8 record. TMS coach Jeff Philbrick said he thought his team did well, considering there are only three seventh-graders on the squad, the rest are sixth-graders.

"The record is decaying," Philbrick said, "as we faced many seventh-grade dominated teams, such as Oxford Hills. I'm proud of each of my players. They worked very hard in practice and showed a lot of improvement this season. Hopefully, this improvement will continue for the Telstar program."

Girls' basketball

Caribec 59, Telstar 54

Telstar High School's girls lost in overtime Wednesday, Feb. 8, 59-54 to Caribec. "Even though we were unable to pull out the win, the girls played an excellent game against a bigger and stronger team," said coach Ray Seames. "They maintained their poise, and came away winners inside. Memories of this game should carry the girls throughout the summer in anticipation of next season."

The Rebels had scoring from every team member. Sarah Richardson had a game-high 18 points and Beth Howe netted 10. The Cobras dominated the boards early in the game, leading the Rebels by as much as eight in the first quarter. But Telstar neutralized Caribec's big girls in the second period. Strong rebounding by Jana Mason and fast breaks saw the Rebels battle back and a three-pointer by Jill Olson late in the second quarter put the Rebels ahead.

During the second half Telstar increased their lead to eight points, but the Cobras battled back and tied it just before the buzzer. Telstar was unable to keep a lead in overtime and lost 59-54.

Mt. Abram 84, Telstar 36

Telstar's varsity girls lost 84-36 Feb. 2 to Mt. Abram. Both Richardson and Howe also turned in outstanding defensive performances, according to coach Seames. "We struggled throughout the game against Mt. Abram's press and inside game," Seames said. "Off to a 25-4 first period, the Roadrunners out rebounded the Rebels 45-14, scoring consistently inside and off the transition. The Rebels were able to stop the fast break late in the third period, but the damage had long since been done."

Mt. Valley 71, Telstar 33

Telstar's girls were overwhelmed by their state Class B opponents Mt. Valley on Jan. 30, losing 71-33 to the Falcons.

Beth Howe was high-scorer with 14 points. Jana Mason had a game-high 10 rebounds.

Gould plans for summer school

The Gould Academy Summer School is preparing for its 15th summer of accelerated education.

According to summer school Director of Admissions Kimberly A. Caldwell, the six-week program provides students entering grades 9-12 the luxury of focusing their attention on one or two academic subjects while enjoying many cultural and recreational opportunities.

"In their major course, students cover a year's worth of material in six weeks," she said. "This program is designed as an enrichment program for motivated students."

The residential study program assists students in moving ahead in their education, noted Caldwell. "Although rules vary from district to district, most high schools accept credits earned during summer school," added Caldwell.

Roger Fuller, who has worked with summer school since its inception, takes over in 1995 as the program's director. A 1993 Milken Award recipient, Fuller chairs the English department at Oak Hill High School in Sabattus during the regular academic year and directs Project Discovery for the Gifted and Talented.

Students interested in Gould's summer school program should contact Caldwell at 824-7777.

North Newry

by
Gil Seeley

Well, last week I said no snow, so the Windy Valleys Sno-mobile Club would not have their oyster stew supper on the 11th. Mother nature sure fooled us... It goes to show that she is still the Boss. I stayed at the Bachelors during the storm, as we didn't know if the electric power would go out. I came back home Sunday when the wind and things started to calm down. My neighbor, Bob Bartholomew, plowed my driveway so I could get to the door without trouble. We were lucky that we didn't lose the electric power. When will the next storm come? The Sno-Mobilers should be happy now. Happy Trail!

Seven members of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, one day last week; Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Eleanor Davis, Sylvia Wight, Bea Lowell, and Olive Anderson, Rena Powers and Jim Anderson were guests. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on both the triples and singles. Of the "Righties," Bea was high on the triples and Eleanor was high on the singles. Betsy had one strike and one spare, Karlene had two spares, Gil had four spares, Eleanor had one spare, Sylvia had one spare, and Bea had one spare and one strike. All went to lunch and did some shopping.

Since I wrote the first paragraph, I received notice that the Windy Valley's annual Oyster Stew Supper for members and guests will be held Feb. 25, at 5 p.m. in the Grange Hall, as was announced at the meeting Tuesday night.

Bill and Sylvia Wight have had a male cardinal at their feeders all winter so far. Some neighbors say that the birds are scarce this year compared with the past winters. With the warm January, maybe the poor birds are wondering if they should go north or south just like some of us...

"Do you ever think what wondrous beings these? Do you ever think who made them, and who taught the dialect they speak, where melodies alone are the interpreters of thought? Whose household words are songs in many keys, sweeter than instruments of man ever caught?"

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

On Jan. 29, during the church services at the East Stoneham Congregational Church UCC, Jean Littlefield was recognized and honored as one of the new deacons. Feb. 5 was the first church services at the North Waterford Congregational Church after having much repair and renovations done there.

There is still much to be done, but we can have services now and all of February. On Thursday evening, Feb. 2, there was a meeting at the parsonage with about eight people to discuss and plan for the Aug. 26 birthday party for the East Stoneham Church, which is 100 years old this year. It sounds like an exciting and interesting weekend, and any help or input on the planning would be welcomed by the committee. I hope out-of-towners and out-of-staters will be able to attend these festivities, as well as the members of the community.

Readers, we can learn something every day. I learned a lesson on Sunday -- to check things out before proceeding. The grandchildren wanted to make crank freezer ice cream, so we said sure! We got it all together and they churned and churned until it got done and then we tasted it. What a surprise -- it was so salty it was terrible. Evidently the middle container had sprung a leak around the bottom and the salt got up into it. We weren't beaten. We brought the electric freezer in and made up a new batch. What a time we had, but it was all worth it. What a difference and how much better it is than the store-bought.

I hope you all had a happy Valentine's Day and was remembered. I'm sure most of us have happy thoughts of past days.

On Tuesday, Feb. 7, there was a meeting of the Stoneham Knight Riders Snowmobile Club at the Stoneham Fire Station with president Eben Harmon presiding. There were 19 people there. Secretary and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. Discussion was had about non-members abusing the privilege of using our trails in certain places, and a letter will be sent asking them to please use more care and consideration when the trail is near a home. Also, a trail has had to be changed on account of the beavers building a dam and flooding done.

A couple of weeks ago I had the most interesting visit at the Clare-Bell Brass Works, owned and operated by Susan and Dana Gregson of Lowell. Clare-Bell specializes in making handcrafted brass miniatures and they sell wholesale all over the world. The little lamps and chandeliers that really light up are so beautiful and dainty. You have to see them to appreciate them. Dana has a bachelor's degree in Maine engineering and has operated Gregson Machine Co. for 10 years, and Susan has a bachelor's degree in social work. Christopher, 17, and Diana, 12, help their parents in the business whenever they can. The Gregson's part-time staff includes Gloria Richardson and Eleanor Farington.

Lois Niemi was installed Most Excellent Chief of the Pythian Sisters

Hamlin Temple at the Oxford meeting. Arlene Merrill was installing officer but Violet Doughty installed her niece.

This morning, Feb. 5, we all looked out on a new world.

There's a world outside my window/Far removed from all around/Where I feel a transformation/A soul when peace is found.

This storm started yesterday. It broke forth into full snowy bloom, and the gathering crystals darkened the air. The wind swept past in hissing floods, grinding the snow into meal and sweeping down into hollows in drifts all the heavier parts. The finer dust was sifted through the sky, increasing gloom.

It was a driving snowstorm most of the day and into the night, imprisoning some, blocking roads and taking down power lines. It was the worst storm of the winter thus far. A strong wind blew the snow almost horizontally and besides freezing one, almost took their breath away. The driving snow was blinding, and when one was protected he could see but a little distance; it was so thick.

All through the night whenever I woke up, I'd hear the hooting of the wind around the house. I'd hear it wail and scream and then go roaring away, through the bare branches of the trees.

It was the master storm of this winter. Previously we had had but light snow. It had been so warm, also, and we were spoiled. The evergreens had been able to catch the snow upon their arms and keep a circle of bare ground beneath them, where birds could scratch.

The Old Man of the North, this time appeared himself at our doors and windows.

We celebrated another birthday at the farm this Sunday, this time it was for Ann. Her mother made her a beautiful and most delicious cake. We recalled the frosty -32 degrees on the morning she was born. No hospital nearer than Lewiston and a car that wouldn't start. There were many other happenings, too numerous to write here.

The daughter of Dot Betts visited her over the weekend.

Someone skated the channel one day this week. I was a bit nervous for the channel is always tricky. I have known of two who went through the ice in mid-winter.

Finally, a day I can devote to this column, I didn't think I was all that busy, but after I figured out the amount of gasoline I used I changed my mind. However, last week I was invited to go with Gerry Shimamura to Lewiston, and I dropped everything and left. She is leaving for Costa Rica soon for two weeks with a Nazarene Work and Witness Team and has some other plans pending as soon as she gets back, so we figured it might be a while before we'd get a chance to go again. We had a good time looking through the stores and doing a bit of shopping and had lunch at The Village Inn.

Chris and Nick Ryan got their long hoped for snow and were with their parents, Jim and Linda, at the Greene's house over the weekend. No doubt they spent many hours on the ski slopes.

Warren Thurston was an overnight guest of Lorraine Mills Friday and attended the renewal services at the

A/G church with her.

Charlotte Cole has been busy again. She says the furthest she goes is Canton and the oldest one she's played for is 103. This time she visited Doris Lawrence, played for her and took her a loaf of bread. She also attended the Open House for Rennie Cole on the occasion of his 93rd birthday and played for him. She recently played Happy Birthday and took a friendship cake to Fay Kimball, and Shirley Tucker accompanied her to Fay's. They also visited Bertha Flanders on the way home.

Lewis and Shirley Tucker from Oxford, Conn., are spending a few days at their log cabin on the Greenwood Road.

Diana Cole, Vera Cross, and Charlotte Cole were among those attending a baby shower for Marie Wilday at the home of her brother, Elton Cole, and given by his wife Christine. She thought she was attending a birthday party for her brother. The Cole family is thinking blue, as her parents, Irving and Ellen Cole, have 10 grandchildren, all girls. However, it will be welcomed heartily no matter which it is.

Mrs. Betty Moore recently had guests, Son-in-law Robert Geloran, and two brothers and friend spent a ski weekend during the storm. Granddaughters Kristina and Lindsay were visitors also.

Get well wishes to Mrs. Martha Cronin, she's a patient at the Maine Medical Center in Portland.

Erica and Jeremy Moren of Columbia, N.H., were visiting with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Swan, for the weekend.

Basil Sequin gave the Historical Society some pictures, including two of Annie Crockett in her young years. Curator Larry Billings has been studying some New England writers. The library got his two books about Edna St. Vincent Millay on inter-library loan. He thanks them. The society has an outstanding collection of exhibits.

Franklin Grange 124 will meet on Feb. 20 for Presidents and Valentine's Day program. There will be a 6:30 potluck supper; please bring a hot dish, salad or dessert. Also, please bring a homemade valentine to be judged.

Curator Larry Billings has given a framed, antique print and a copy of Nickolas and Alexandra to the Historical Society. The society observes that Maine poet Edwin Arlington Robinson once wrote, "You have the ages for your guide."

Joseph and Maggie Hart visited their dad, James Hoyt, over the weekend.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens met last week with 33 present. A delicious potluck dinner was served and a game party followed.

Please call me or send me your news -- 665-2460 or write P.O. Box 105.

Thought of the day:
It's for the Birds--
We are "born with it all"

But time takes it away,
Inexorably yet fleeting
It flies day by day.

In exchange for our youth
What we get I am told
Is a wealth of great wisdom

By just growing old.
Well, I'd give up my "smarts"
And the wit of my tongue

If I could once more
Just be stupid and young!

North Woodstock

by Shane Billings

Lee Billings has received a number of visitors this week as he continues his recuperation.

Both he and Emma appreciate all who have stopped by; your support means a great deal.

Sue Silver took her first snowshoe hike of the year, traveling into the field beyond Louise Chapman's home. In other Silver news, Joelle's puppy finally has a name. After debating fiercely, the Silver family decided on Candy.

There were complications at Telstar this week involving the water pipes and heat, so we were home on Monday and Tuesday. It was actually good to get back to school today, after such a prolonged absence.

Well, after all my talk about the glorious weather we've had this winter, a huge snow storm has finally hit us. Although we didn't get as much as I originally heard we would, this is quite a change from a week ago. February is traditionally a month of love and happiness, and I hope everyone has a great one. Until next week, that's it from North Woodstock.

Daisy Coolidge and Charlene Haines took Peggy Coolidge to the Red Top on Jan. 29 for a birthday breakfast.

Serena Enman of Canton visited Peggy Coolidge on her birthday, and Mary Bean brought her a birthday cake. Peggy received many cards and phone calls.

Peggy Coolidge went with Mr. and Mrs. Roger Twitchell to Bethel Senior Citizens on Feb. 8 at the Congregational Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudi Honkala visited Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Eldredge in Unity recently.

Leslie Bancroft of Richfield, Conn., visited Florence Hastings recently.

High Street

West Paris by Russell Yates

Howdy, folks. Well, we have survived the snow storm, and what a storm it was! It sure snowed and blew, but everything is quite calm here this Monday morning as I attempt to type up our reports for the last week.

Peggy had an appointment with her doctor a week ago this morning, and he thought she was doing quite well and on the road to recovery. After her appointment she took me out to lunch at Pizza Hut in honor of my approaching birthday.

Our caller in the afternoon was Doc Merrill from Myrtle Street, South Paris. He was checking to see when Peggy was going to be ready for more dances.

Last Tuesday morning dawned bright and clear, so Peggy invited our sister, Laura Hutchins and Bertha Benoit of West Paris to come for dinner. They both came, and Bertha came bearing a beautiful gelatin salad with strawberries in and on it. It was delicious. This was all to celebrate my birthday, and instead of making me a birthday cake Peggy made a delicious apple pie.

I was a year older on Wednesday, the first day of February.

The temperature was up in the 40s Wednesday afternoon, and Peggy and I took a walk outside to enjoy the spring-like weather.

Wednesday evening, we visited Richard and Barbara Felt.

Peggy wasn't feeling well last Thursday morning, so I went alone to meet our appointment at Community Concepts to apply for help in buying our oil. I had tried for an appointment many weeks ago and this was the earliest opening they had.

We went to Shop 'n Save for our supply of groceries on Friday morning. While there we met Gwendolyn Currier, a good friend who used to live in Bethel at the same time we did. On the way home we stopped at the home of Gail Butterfield, South Paris, so that I could pay some Pomona Grange dues and also figure out the new password in readiness for the Pomona Grange meeting at Oxford Grange Hall next Tuesday evening.

Friday afternoon, Bertha Benoit brought some goodies from their Thursday night Grange meeting. In the evening she came again and had a fruit basket from some friends in West Paris.

Saturday was a very snowy day and we just stayed inside and watched the snowflakes fall.

Our nephew, David Yates plowed our front yard the first thing Sunday morning. Loretta and Emerson Merrill of West Bethel phoned that they were coming down, and Emerson plowed down back of the mobile home and cleared the area where Peggy parks her car. They stayed to dinner with us.

We attended the 75th birthday party for Lucille Robbins at Franklin Grange Hall on Sunday afternoon. The gang was all there when Lucille arrived, and she thought she was going to attend an anniversary party for Ellsworth and Joyce Hathaway, but as she entered all hands started singing the "Happy Birthday" song. It was a total surprise to her. Lucy said she had spent hours searching for the right anniversary card for Ellsworth and Joyce and they were going to receive it yesterday, even if it wasn't their anniversary.

—How can I tell if my seat is safe?

Call the Auto Safety Hotline (800-424-9393) to find out whether or not your seat has been recalled for defects.

—What if I can't afford to buy a seat? Low-cost rental seats (infant, toddler, and special needs) are available to families through 50 loaner programs around the state. Call 800-698-3624 for details.

—Are there exceptions to the law?

Children transported in vehicles (such as school buses) not required by the Department of Transportation to be manufactured with safety belts are not required to be in child safety seats.

—What does the law require of children over four years? Maine's law says that children 4 to 19 must be properly secured in a child safety seat or safety belt. Only when the vehicle's lap belt stays low on the child's hips and doesn't ride up across the abdomen, and the shoulder belt doesn't cross in front of their face or neck, are children ready for adult safety belts. Until that time, they should ride in a booster seat.

—How can I tell if my seat meets federal standards? Seats that meet federal standards bear stickers saying "this device meets all applicable federal standards for use in motor vehicles." If the sticker has worn off, the make and model of the seat can be checked with the manufacturer to make sure it is meant for use in a motor vehicle.

Task Force Rises:

By KATHARINE BEMPTON

Economic development committee, local historical, coffee house and diversity were among the topics before the Bethel Area Task Force at a recent winter meeting at the Academy.

Chairwoman of the Economic Development Group, Dr. Stanley Howe of the Bethel Historical Society had been asked by the selection committee to lead the planning group, and that meetings were underway. The Task Force endorsed participation under an Education Group subcommittee consistent with its goals.

Gwyneth Bohr also reported for the T.F. that a short summer program is in the planning for this coming season and its calendar was expected out soon.

Sunday River will host first ever U.S. telemark World Cup

Sunday River Ski Resort will host the first World Cup telemark ski race ever held in the United States on March 1 and 3. The race is part of a week-long Telemark Festival at Sunday River, which will include the U.S. National Championships.

The festival will run from Tuesday, Feb. 28 through March 5, with the competition events beginning Wednesday, March 1. The largest telemark event on the continent, the festival will draw over 100 of the world's top Telemark racers, including two-time World Champion Morten Moller of Norway. Over 50 European racers are registered for the event, which is also drawing competitors from Switzerland, Sweden, Finland, Canada and the United States.

Telemark skiing is the original form of downhill skiing. The ski boot is attached to the ski only at the toe, as opposed to the toe-and-heel binding found on today's conventional alpine skis.

The week-long festival, sanctioned by both the United States Telemark Ski Association (USTSA) and the International Telemark Federation (ITF), is part of the 10th annual Eastern Telemark Series. In addition to World Cup and Citizen Class racing, there will be instructional clinics for skiers in moguls, telemark jumping, back-country skiing and racing.

The March 1 Classic Terrain Course, offering competition at both the U.S. national and World Cup levels, promises to be one of the festival's most challenging events. The Classic incorporates a giant slalom course, a nordic jump, and uphill skate and a super-G style finish.

According to Claude W. Muff, director of the Eastern Division of the USTSA, "the Classic Terrain Race is one of the biggest tests of a telemark skier. It incorporates all events, lasting anywhere from three to five minutes."

The World Cup Giant Slalom race will be held on Sunday River's T2 and Monday Mourning trails. The race will begin at 10 a.m. on March 3. The World Cup races are the last ITF races prior to the season finals at Rauland, Norway, which will be followed by the World Championships in Lillehammer.

The Professional Ski Instructors of America (PSIA) will join in at the festival. PSIA will be on hand for slope clinics, while local groups will lead back-country tours of off-piste runs.

GREENWOOD HISTORICAL SOCIETY MEETS

The Task Force will sponsor a Diversity Workshop, tentatively on June 9, near the opening date of NTL. This workshop has been offered during the past two years, especially geared for retail and hospitality personnel. It continues because of changing personnel.

The Task Force also discussed what feedback has come in since the Coffee House was discontinued. Was this drug-free family-type recreation missed? After three sessions, it was not reopened this year. Whether it would be reopened would depend on feedback. To this time, feedback has not been sufficient to warrant reopening, but reactions and additional committee volunteers could change this.

The next Task Force meeting will be at 7 p.m. Sunday, March 12, at the home of Kenneth and Gwyneth Bohr on Chapman Street.

At the next meeting, a video will be shown on the old way of cutting ice.

The society dance will be held at the Town Hall with Felt's orchestra on Feb. 25.
